

rered with a Tanteless and Soluble Coating Of all drugging Price 25 cents a box. New York Depot, 355 Canal St.

Sick Head

HAVE MERCY ON THE BABY.

Dut of Regard for His Spinal Column Choose His Nurse With Care. Mothers would be justly indignant if accused of any lack of care for their little ones. Yet how many of them watch and choose carefully the nurse to whom they intrust their darlings? To illustrate the culpable carelessness of some nurses may be given the following true story by the wife of an eminent physician: "I have no doubt," she said, in the course of conversation, "that many of the distressing chronic scure ramifications and manifestations might, if parents but knew it, be directly traced to some act of wanton that Prince Roland Bonaparte is both a thoughtlessness on the part of the nursery maid. It is quite dreadful to think Bonaparte; that Prince Constantine of such a delicate little piece of mechanour being given over to the care of an ignovant, indifferent person. The least sudden jar, if the weight of the body is resting at all on the spine, might be exceedingly injurious, and for that reason i would enact a law, if I had my way, to abolish baby carriages for infarts under a year old at least. If your nurse is too lazy or too weak to carry her nursling get another woman, but do not expose your helpless little one to the jarring movements of even the best springs in lifting the carriage across a curb, etc. Besides, the actual heat of the human body is a great protection against cold, and no amount of elder-down or woolen will take the kiedly bosom and strong, tender arms.

"I will tell what I actually saw once," she continued, after a moment's hesitation. "The story is so painful that I hardly like to tell it, but it may do good in showing young mothers the actual dangers to which their babies are exposed. I was walking in street one afternoon, when a nurse who was evidently belated passed me with baby wagon at a very quick page, the little carriage, with its sleeping baby, swayed up and down on its easy aprings, with the rapid motion. 'Oh, do take care!' I exclaimed, as she passed me with a sudden swerve of the little vehicle; 'you will hurt the child.' The did not eatch, turning at the same time into the basement area of a large, fine his sight, for without remonstrance he Edmond Blanc ious injury if she jolts down the steps Alice Marot. in the manner I have just noticed, and I was proceeding to give her a little in- for his Cross of the Legion of Honor to infants when her manner froze me at M. Daniel Wilson, the son-in-law of once. "Thank you," she said, haughtily, but I think I can trust to the experience of my nurse.' As she spoke there came the sound of a rush of rapid footsteps in the hall and a maid burst in upon us. 'Mrs. A-, come quick" she panted, 'the baby has a fit?' In an instant the mother was out of the room and running down the basement stairs; while I, feeling that I could be of no use, left the house, pitying the poor young thing too much to blame her. The next day I passed by and noticed with a start of horror the fatal insignia of mourning on the door-the baby was dead. Did the doctors know, I wonder ed, that it had been murdered?"-N. Y.

Tribune. A LITTLE MIRTH.

Sr. Peren-"Wont you walk in?" -Kate Field's Washington.

is dignity?" Express.

"Mn. Scaucians was very affable obligatory resignation of his father-in-when I called on him." "You must law, M. Grevy, from the presidency of have struck a tender chord." "No; I the republic. Indeed, the decoration of paid a bill."

ene e'clock. I believe I'll retire." Mr. Parke-"I guess I'll wait. The bur- ministers of commerce and agriculture glars ought to be along inside of an hour, and I do hate to be aroused after decree conferring the cross upon M. nour, and I do hate to be aroused after I have once gone to sleep."-Indianapolis Journal.

"Wno held the pass of the Thermopylæ against the Persian host?" demaskled the teacher. And the editor's boy at the foot of the class spoke up and said: "Father, I reckon. He holds an annual on every road in the country that rups a passenger train."

She Weuldn't Even Try. "Don't you think you could learn to love me?" he asked, looking at her wist-

"I'm sure I couldn't," she answered, decidedly; "I'm a perfect dance. When I was at school I never could fours anything."-Demorest's Magazina

-Muny of the subscribers to Victoria leollege, the new Metherlist institution | Prado and Pranzini, upon the bounties at Terente, are children from six years epward.

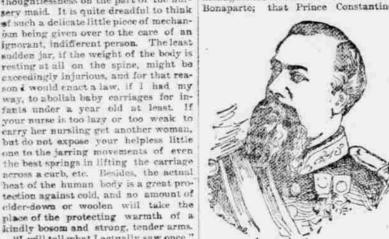

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

WICKEDEST ON EARTH.

History of the Quartette Who Own the Monaco Gambling Hell.

Men Who Are Responsible for 4,213 Authentic Cases of Sulcide-They All Have Titles and Belong to the First Rank of Scoundrels

[COPYRIGHT, 1903.] The lawsuit now in progress in the French courts against Eclaireur newspaper of Nice for having denounced the eigning prince of Monaco's presence at the Columbian fetes of Genoa as an insult both to the Italian king and to the French government, and the recent failare of M. Edmond Blanc to get himself elected to the chamber of deputies at Paris, may serve to attract public at tention for a moment to these two personages, who, together with Prince Constantine Radziwill and the so-called Prince Roland Bonaparte, who is neither 'prince" nor "Bonaparte," own, control and run the great gambling hell at Monte Carlo. The latter has often been portrayed in print, elaborate and detailed descriptions have been published of the manner in which the enterprise is managed, as well as of the huge profits which it yields every year. But tioned have hitherto escaped careful notice, and all that the general public has been led to believe by the corrupt French press, which receives annually close upon a million of francs in bribes from Monte Carlo Societe des Jeux, troubles of the spine and its more ob- is that M. Edmond Blane is the munificent mayor of La Celle St. Cloud and the of Bonaparte. His mother was not most enlightened patrons of the turf;

PRINCE CHARLES OF MONACO, DEAD.

Radziwill is an honored member of the illustrious Russian family of that name, and that the prince of Monaco will remain on record in the book of fame by reason of the services which he has rendered to science. We are assured, more over, that all four men accept with the ntmost reluctance the income accruing to each from the Societe des Jeux; that they are, so to speak, the victims of circumstances over which they have no control, and that they endeavor to atone in a measure for the ignoble girl gave an impertment toss of the source of their wealth by charity prachead and muttered something that I ticed on a scale proportionate to their

The principal and managing partner house, and without checking her career of the concern is M. Edmond Bianc, she bumped the carriage down the chevalier of the Legion of Honor, three or four steps that led to the en- mayor of La Celle St. Cloud and the closure. 'I will do as I would like to proprietor of one of the principal racing be done by, I said to myself on watch- stables of France. His wife, still a ing the performance, 'although it is beautiful woman, being mayoress, is at small thanks that I will get, I dare present at the head of the local chari-So I ran up the steps, rang the ties and president of an important disbell, and told the butler, who came to trict school directed by a number of the door, that I wished to see the lady nuns. The latter, good and holy womof the house. Luckily I found favor in en that they are, merely see in Mme. showed me into a little side library, and have manifestly never set their and a second after a pretty young eyes on the peculiar decollete photowomen walked in with an inquiring graphs of the lady which are still to be expression on her pleasant face. I found in the out-of-the-way shops in found in the out-of-the-way shops in beg your pardon for intruding, I be- Paris. For Mme. Edmond Blane was wan, but I feel it my duty to tell you formerly known in the demi-monde of that your maid will do your child ser- the French capital by the name of formation about the delicate structure the fact that he invested $20,000 in the of the head, neck and spine of young newspaper La Petite France, owned by

PRINCE BOLAND BONAPARTE

President Grevy. That is to say, he acquired the decoration by purchase, since all the payments to M. Wilson for Boston Spinster-"Is Browning here?" crosses of the order, which he sold, were made under the guise of sub-"Para," asked the small boy, "what scriptions to La Petite France. This "Dignity, my son," re- fact was made clear during the governplied the father, "consists principally ment inquiry into the Legion of Honor of a tall hat and a frock coat."—Buffalo scandals, which resulted in M. Wilson's expulsion from parliament, and in the "That's what I meant; a M. Edmond Blanc was one of the causes legal tender chord."-Washington Star. which led to the discovery of the dis-Mrs. Jackson-Parke-"My, it's after graceful trailie. It is worthy of note that no less than three successive the latter was a welcome and frequent never been permitted to cross the threshold since M. Carnot has succeeded to the presidency. proprietor of the Monte Carlo establishment, and brother-in-law of M. Edmond London police. She was accused Dinne, owes his entire fortune to his marriage with Mile. Sophie Blanc. Of illustrious Russian descent-his family. possesses the tilular dukedom of Olika her arrest. For two months she renevertheless the least respectable and least respected of the four-part proprictors of the gambling establishment. The younger son of an impoverished branch of his family, he lived the life of a disreputable adventurer until his marriage, dependent for a living, like of the frailer portion of the fair sex. His means of livelihood, indeed, appeared so very questionable to the poice authorities of Brussels, where he resided for a time prior to his marriage. that he was politely, but nevertheless from Belgium. It is hardly necessary for me to add that Prince Constantine, and, of course, his wife as well, are mbletely ostracised by all the best Parisian society, as well by the foreign diplomatic corps, and notwithstanding his Russian birth and titles, neither Prince nor yet Princess Constantine ted to set their foot inside the Russian for want of money, sent all her pawnembassy at Paris. In the same manner the court and society of Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, and indeed, of every capital of Europe, have closed their doors against them. Prince Roland Bonaparte, the third member of the firm which owns the Monte Carlo gambling establishment, is, like his brother-in-law, Prince Radzi-

the quartette of proprietors above men- Blane's sister. Marie, for his present affluence, since at the time of his mar- at that time president of the republic, riage he was absolutely penniless. Un- imploring his assistance. The kindlike Prince Radziwill, however, he possesses neither illustrious birth and ancestry, nor yet authentic rank. For, as tickets and a sum of $500. I stated above, he is neither entitled to assume the title of prince nor the name married to his father at the time of his birth, which took place at Paris in 1858. distinguished savant and an authentic For notwithstanding the fact that the ordinarily correct Almanach de Gotha gives the date of their union as March 22, 1853, the marriage was really celebrated for the first time on the 30th of December, 1871, at the French legation at Brussels.

Roland's father was Prince Peter Bonaparte, who was famed as being the most disreputable member of Napoleon III.'s family. In his younger days he had been obliged to fice from Italy in consequence of his murder of a gamekeeper who had attempted to prevent him from poaching on private property. Nor was this the only blood with which his hands were stained. For in January, 1870, he shot down, in his own house at Paris, the French journalist, Victor Noir, who, together with a M. de Fonvielle, had called for the purpose of making the final arrangements for a duel which was to take place between their friend, M. Grossett, and the prince. It was this last crime of Prince Peter which precipitated the overthrow of the empire of France. So much for Roland's father. His mother was the daughter of a plumber, and became acquainted with Prince Peter Bonaparte for the first time in 1852, when not only she, but also her sister Eliza, became attached to pacity of servants, but in that of belles amies. Both bore children to the prince, but whereas those of the elder si Justine-namely, Roland and his sister, Jeanne, were permitted to remain unfoundling asylum at Paris. Both sisdescribe, until 1869, when the succeeded in marrying off to an official of the Eliza Octroi, or metropolitan customs administration. The marriage, however, did not turn out well; the couple are now longer any means of subsistence, pro-time she openly took up her abode with their discoveries as his own. latter, the new-fledged princess found and pressed for want of money, em-Prince Constantine Radziwill, part barked upon a course of fraud which brought her into conflict with the among other things of raising money means of fraudulent notes Nieswiez, Dubinski and Birze-he is mained concealed in London, thanks to the assistance of her friend, the wine merchant, and in April, 1874, she finally succeeded in escaping from England and in making her way to France. Finding, however, that the British police were about to demand her extradition, she appealed for assistance to a lady who was renowned for her devotion to the imperialist cause, and who, for the sake of the name of Bonaparte, advanced the $7,000 which were needed to stop the prosecution and to effect a compromise with the persons who had children, Roland and Jeanne, lived at has been the heroine of several sensa-Paris upon the charity of benevolent people, especially of those belonging to the Bonapartist cause. It was a precarious livelihood, however, at the best, and by degrees everything that the little family possessed found its way to the pawnshop. In the autumn of 1877 Radziwell have ever yet been permit- Princess Justine, rendered desperate tickets to Marshal MacMahon, who was hearted old soldier sent back to her by his aid-de-camp, Col. Robert, her pawn-

PRINCE CONSTANTIN BADZIWILL.

Prince Napoleon, surnamed Plonplon, and his sister, Princess Matilda, likewise each contributed a few hundred dollars to Justine on the condition that the money should be applied to the schooling of Roland. The father, however, Prince Peter, refused to have anything to do with his children, having contracted a fresh lefthanded alliance. At his death, in 1881, it was found that he left everything he ssessed to his young son, the issue of his later linison. It was by charity, too, that Roland was placed in a postion to enter the military college of St. Cyr. On graduating from the latter, with the rank of lieutenant, an Amer ican born lady of title whose husband, a French count, had served in the civil war here, interested herself in behalf of the young soldier, whose name and misfortunes aroused her sympathy. Being acquainted with the old Widow Blanc, the reliet of the founder of the Monte Carlo establishment, she conceived the idea of marrying Roland to Mme. Blane's daughter Marie. The marriage took place at Paris, in 1880, and the bridegroom received on the day

ALICE MAROT-MME. EDMOND BLANC. lishment, but also 1,000,000 francs down der the prince's roof, those of the in French government bonds. Eighteen younger sister Eliza were sent to the months later Roland's wife, who had meanwhile given birth to a little girl, ters remained with the prince, living in | died in the most sudden and unaccounta promiscuity which it is impossible to able manner. Indeed, such were the circomstances of her death that the government at one moment was on the point of interfering, and was only debarred therefrom, so it was said at Paris, by the influence which Roland's brother-in-law, Edmond Blanc, was divorced, and Roland's aunt lives on a able to bring to bear upon President pension which he allows her. After Greey through the latter's son-in-law, the war of 1870 Prince Poter lost the al- Wilson. People in Paris do not hesitate lowance of $30,000 which he had re- to assert that Marie Blane had come to yours .- Life. ceived up to that time from his cousin, be regarded both by her husband and Emperor Napoleon III., and having no especially by her mother-in-law, Prinress Justine Bonaparte, as an obstacle ceeded to desert his two children and to the ambitious projects which the old Justine, who had meanwhile become lady as well as her son are well known his wife. It was then that Justine, to entertain. The prince is now endeavoring to secure the hand of Princess Letitia, daughter of the late Prince Napoleon, and widow of King Humbert's brother, the late duke of Aosta. Should that marriage ever take place Prince Roland considers that he will be in a position to put forward his claim to the chieftaincy of the Bonapartist party. But little importance is attached at Paris to the interest which he affects in scientific pursuits.

And it is with equal contempt that the scientific pretensions of the reign- career. ing prince of Monneo are regarded by all the leading French savants, many of whom have acquired by conversation in 1871, at Brussels, had assumed the does not know anything whatsoever exclaimed: "O, we have left Gyras his title of Princess Peter Bonaparte, about the questions treated in the elabstarted a dressmaker's shop in London. orate reports presented to the various at No. 91 New Bond street. The sign scientific societies of Europe in his over the door was as follows: "Princess name. He is fond of inviting savants Pierre Bonaparte, marchande de con- to make use of his yacht for purposes of fections pour dames." At the same exploration, and then of appropriating Blane, and that whereas in former days a Charing Cross wine merchant who case of this kind furnished the theme went by the name of Terry. Notwith- of a vast amount of discussion in the guest at the Elysce Palace, he has standing the financial assistance of the French scientific papers during the past summer. With regard to the assertion it impossible to make both ends meet, so frequently made that he no longer derives any pecuniary benefit from the gaming tables, it is merely necessary to refer to the annual report of the Societe des Jeux of Mente Carlo, which shows that for the year 1591 he received as his share of the profits a net sum of 10 000 and bills, and warrants were issued for 600 francs. In addition to this the firm, in accordance with the terms of its contract, paid to him his civil list of $100, 000, and defrayed the entire expenses both of his household and of hi ernment. A careful perusal of the contract between the prince, as ruler of Monaco, and the firm of Monte Carlo will show conclusively that he has the power and the right to terminate the lease at any time. He should therefore bear the full moral responsibility of all the iniquities practiced at Monte Carlo,

The prince's present wife, the wid-owed Duchesse de Richelleu, a daughter of the Parisian Hebrew banker Heine, been defrauded. From that time forth did not bear the very best of reputafirmly, invited to take his departure both Princess Justine and her two tions previous to her marriage. She tional scandals, and is known not only to have lived with the prince of Mona co, but also to have borne him two children previous to her being united to him in the legal bonds of matrimony. Her character, indeed, was so nothe late Charles III., of Monaco, would not hear of the match, which he pronounced as in every way unworthy even for his son, and it was not until several weeks after his death that the wedding at length took place. Althe prince possesses a long string of titles and is received with the honors due to a crowned head at certain of the courts of Europe, yet the blood that runs in his veins is of a very plebeian character, as his grand- from some very expensive stone either mother, Marie Louise Gilbert, was set singly or surrounded by smaller the daughter of a small shopkeeper at ones. Paris, while his grandfather was an actor at the Ambigu theater in the French metropolis. His existence as a show was a Clydesdale stallion from reigning sovereign tends to bring roy-alty into contempt and ridicule, while The smallest animal was a Shetland his life as an individual is of a charac- pony which weighs only 70 pounds. ter almost as ignoble as that of Prince | A PIE served to Charles II. was made Constantine Radziwill, whose vices are of sparrows, potatoes, cringoes, lettuce, of the most indescribable character. chestnuts, oysters, citron, artichokes, The prince of Monaco's career has been eggs, lemons, barberries, pepper, nutone long succession of shameful scan- meg, cloves, mace, currants, sugar and dals, which have been kept out of the wine paymasters, the Monte Carlo firm, who Town Cycling club, died recently, and, by all means in their power to maintain coffin was borne to the grave on four his prestige as much as possible unim- riding on their wheels. paired. Few people are aware of the fact that when, by his shameful immoralities, practiced even under his very to the same treatment suffered by -Philadelphia Times. Queen Nathalie, of Servia, a few years | Burgas-"Now, Mr. Silmdiet, I would ago at Wiesbadt a. That is to say, a like to have your kleas of eternal puncommissary of the Italian police, accom-panied by several constables in uni-no trouble to give. It's a place where form, called at the hotel at Milan they don't serve pie with every meal." where she was staying and demanded Inter Ocean. in the name of the Italian government the door suddenly opened, and stamps Grand Duchess Katherine of Russia, who had been attracted to the spot by in the music-room?" the noise, darted into the room, seized the mother, proudly. "She's playing the little prince in her arms and re-treated with him to her arms and retreated with him to her own apartment, daring the commissary of police says it always sounds like forty to me, to molest her in any way. Aware of the rank of the grand duchess and also and the bridegroom received on the day of the trouble certain to ensue if so of his wedding not only a part near a relative of the czar were to meet ownership in the gambling estab- with any official discourtesy in Italy, the police withdrew, and on the following day the grand duchess, accompanied by the princess of Monaco and the little prince, crossed the frontier into Switzerland without any further attempt being made to seize the child. The letter remained with his mother until her marriage was finally annulled by the pope, since which time he has > the wife of the Hungarian magnate, Count Tassilo Festecies From this it will be seen that the four men who own and run the gambling tables at Monte Carlo are entirely unworthy of any consideration, respect or confidence. Indeed, there are many other things that might be told of each one of them, but which will not bear repetition in print. American visitors to the south of France this winter who enter the doors of the Monte Carlo gambling establishment will do well to bear in mind the char INDAPO acter of the owners of the place in whose hands they place themselves. Possibly, however, they may avoid this beautiful spot when they remember that although the population of Monaco does not exceed 4,000 all told, yet that there have been during the last seven years no less than 4,213 dulyauthenticated cases of suicide in the spent part of each year with his father and part with his mother, who is now principality. A Wife's Wrongs.

Applicant-I want a divorce. Lawyer-On what grounds? Applicant - Unfaithfulness. John says Cleopatra was the most beautiful woman that ever lived .- Truth.

She Was His'n. He (anxiously)-You are not your own dear self to-night, sweetheart. She (passively)-No, darling, I am

THE GOULDS.

GEORGE J. GOULD and C. P. Huntington are recent contributors to the building fund of the New York Press club in sums of $1,000 each.

Enwis Gould has ordered from a press-clipping bureau "all the comments and accounts about" his father which have appeared, or will appear, in "all the newspapers of the world."

JAY GOULD's original intention was to be a country editor, but he finally selected another road by which to reach the immense fortune which he had in view from the beginning of his

Oxce when a man in Gould's presence was expressing sympathy for Cyrus W. Field, after his loss of the Manhatwho, on the strength of her marriage with the prince the conviction that he tan Elevated stock, the great financier

Schwinger-Blease don'd schmell der factory out mit dot feerful eigaretta.

FASHION NOTES.

In five o'clock tea no two cups and queers should be alike. A GIRL's coat of red cloth is trimmed with gold and black braid. BUTTERFLY bows with aigrettes sugthe most approved hat and bonnet trimgesting antenne are among some of mings. It is said that five hundred persons worked for ten days on the beautiful lace bridal veil of Princess Margarethe of Persia. It was made at Hirschberg. Silesia.

STICK-PINS are shown in every imaginable style, from the plainest and most inexpensive to the elegant and elaborate, some of them being of enormous value

THE largest horse in the New York

press mainly through the efforts of his | Capt. C. James, of the Redditch (Eng.) onsider it to their interests to endeavor in accordance with his last wish, his the remnants of his reputation and of bicycles and attended by his friends

LINES OF FUN.

A MARKET report states that "cranroof, he drove his first wife, Lady Mary berries are cornered." This is hardly Hamilton, to seek refuge abroad with the term to use. "Cranberries are her child, he attempted to subject her jammed" would be more appropriate.

A college graduate, who applied to that the princess should surrender to an editor for a place on his paper, in them her son; threatening to use stating his qualifications said that he force unless she did so. Just as had been the champion boxer of his they were in the very moment of class, "All right," said the editor, putting their menaces into execution "I'll give you a situation to lick

"Is that your daughter at the piane see, that Wagner's music, and I must too."-Washington Star.

S ULCERS ш SCROFULA 04 RHEUMATISM BLOOD POISON O

pled dragged sell you Oriental Medical Co., 56 Firmuib Place, Chi OLD by Hettinger Bren, and East Desiglan Ave. WICHITA, KAN, and other Leading Drugging

THE BENTLEHAN'S FRIEND, AM

Our PERFECTION SYRINGE has with every bottle. In CLEAR, Does not BTAIN, PREVENTS ETRICTED A. Cores CONDENSES and GLEAT IS ONE to Feat Safe, a QUITE CORE for LECCORDISCR or MITTER. MALTDON MANUFACTURING CO. LANCASTER, GRIQ. Aldrich & Swentzell Drug Co., Agta of the Proprietors at Wicuita.

"A HAND SAW IS A GOOD THING, BUT NOT TO

IS THE PROPER THING FOR HOUSE-CLEANING.

00000000

GEMS IN RHYME.

Winter Woods. In winter woods
I ream, 'neath tracery of trees
Swaped by the breese
Or bitting winds, and dead and dull
The listicus leaves half roase, half lull
The phantoms that my fancy sees
In winter woods.

The button balls Stand out in faithful slibor That nature sets Against the blue to prophesy Of days to follow by and by— Ah! me, in spring one quite regrets The button balls:

The tultp cape.
With brave intent, duty the din
Of storms to win
The guerdon of a summer day In some far-oll alon-coming May-My heart, there's many a lesson in

New bere, now there, The birches rear their wan white arms
'Mid woody caims Of wasting winter's sulttode, And wears some spell, some ghostly need.

And steep the mind in spectral charms

Now here, now there.

"Mid vanished bloom. The mimic stream puris softly by White day is high.
Than closer held in icy in fall.
It rests a while beneath the pall
Of night, and sleep with scarce a nigh
'Mid vanished bloom.

In winter woods Through corridors of year decay

I trend the way

To coming the was deed and dult

The heart leaves now rouse, now hill

The hopes and tears that hold their sway -Marion A. Thayer Furier, in N. Y. Otserver.

Sweeten Life with Kisses. A good-by kins in a little thing, With your hand on the door to go, But it takes she votem out of the sting Of a thoughtless word or a creek fling That you made an hour ago

A kins of greeting is sweet and rare. After the tool of the day.

And it smooths the furrows plowed by care.

The lines on the fereness you once called fals, In the years that have flown away.

Tie a little thing to say: "You are kind: I love you, my dear," each night, But it sends a thrill through the heart, I find, For love is tonder, as love is blin ! As we climb life's rugged height

We sturve each other for love's careas We take but we do not give.
It seems so easy some soul to bless.
But we dole the lave gradgingly, less and less.
Till 'its bitter and bard to live. - Phila delphia Inquiren

-If the ruins of a tempte inspire meaancholy, why shall not the ruins of a great soul affect me so still more? There are men full of colossal relies, like the earth itself. In their deep hearts, already grown cold, lie fossil flowers of a fairer period; they resemble porthern rocks, on which are found the impress of Indian flowers.-J. P. Richter.

WISE SAYINGS.

No man can be rich while he is disenutented. Sarr and light never have to go about hunting for work. DRIVE the devil out of the family and he will soon be homele THE truth that is aimed straight at the devil will be sure to make some highly respectable people dodge. Trune is no virtue in doing what we have to do, for even the devil will behave himself when he is chained, The meanest man in the world will agree to everything you say about him as long as he thinks you are talking about somebody else. - Ram's Horn.

A. W. OLIVER, V. Pres

STATEMENT

of the Condition of the

Wichita National Bank Made to the Comptreller of Currency at the Close of Business,

Sept 30th, 1892, RESOURCES.

Loans and Disconts. . $609,032,59 Bonds and Stocks... 36,532,22 U. S. Bonds 50,000.00 Real Estate..... 65,000.00 Due from U. S. 2,250.00 Overdrafts 3,241.55 Cash and Exchange, 231,297.60

$997,358.96

LIABILITIES. Capital$250,000.00 Surplus 50,000.00 Undivided Profits... 2,381.19

Deposits 649,972.77 $997,858.96 C. A. WALKER Cashr. Correct,

B. LOMBARD, Jr. L. D. BERNNER, W. H. LIVINGERON,

State National Bank

OF WICHITA, KAN.

SURPLUS. DIRECTORS

John Davidson, Polacer Lumbermen

of Sedgwick County. ISTABLISHED :: IN:: 1870

a complete Stock of Pine Lumber shingles, Lath, Donn. bush, etc., always on hand,

Office and pards on Monley ste bd tween Douglas are, and First st. an breach yards at Luken City. Ohls boma City, El Reno and Minco Ok's